

THE FUTURE WAR

Not with cannon huge and fearsome,
Not with rifles in the trench
Will we battle in the future,
But with gases full of stench.

Not with shrapnel nor with Maxims
Will we butcher, slay, or beat,
But with tender hearts we'll spray them
Thick with ether till they sleep.

There will be no cries of anguish
And no rivers running red,
When the chloroforming snipers
Get their fellows in the head.

Forward, then, the charging squadrons,
Not amid the battle's roar,
But with squirt-guns full of chlorine Rake the foeman aft and fore!

Charge, for king and so forth, so forth,
Firing mustard up the slope!
Charge—with needles hypodermic—
Shoot your neighbor full of dope!

Fumes of burning shoes and rubber,
Pepper, garlic and of hay,
Quickly clear the mines and trenches,
Help to win the glorious day.

Thousands strew the scene of battle, Anaesthesia's victims they,
Snoring loudly as they slumber,
Resting meanwhile from the fray.

Cannon-makers out of business,
Chemicals producing now—Knockout drops instead of bullets—Danger lurks not in a row.

Thus the nations all can pleasure
In a war that's safe and sane, Save for some poor sleepy victim,
Who, in falling, gets a sprain.
—Livingston Lance.

SPICE

Mr. Dubb—I've saved that rose you gave me last month, Miss Anteeck, for though it is withered it still reminds me of you.

Miss Anteeck—Sir!—Boston Transcript.

Doctor—Why have you deducted a quarter from my bill?

Patient—That is for the six cigars you broke when you thumped my chest.—Dallas News.

Bix—No man ever succeeded in business who kept watching the clock.

Dix—Oh, I don't know; there's the train dispatcher.—Boston Transcript.

Sportsman—Is the hunting good here? Guide—Yep. Better than the findin'.—Columbia Jester.

Sister Susan—Oh, dear, I've run all out of mauve! Do you think the soldier would mind if I finished his sock in cerise?—Puck.

"Pop, why do they call a man 'mister'?" "To distinguished him from a woman, who is a mystery."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Mother—Why don't you yawn when he stays too long? He'll take the hint and go. Daughter—I did, and he told me what beautiful teeth I had.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"Why do you compare my marksmanship with lightning?" asked the recruit. "Because," replied the instructor, "it never hits twice in the same place."—Washington Star.

Chatty Plumber (to lady of the house)—Yus, mum, we are living in terrible times; a horful war, 'igh prices, 'eavy taxes, and up to now not one bust pipe.—London Opinion.

"Does your daughter play Mozart?"
we asked, displaying unusual erudition.
"I believe so," she replied, deprecatingly, "but I think she prefers auction."—Philadelphia Ledger.

"But your fiance has such a small salary; how are you going to live?"
"Oh, we're going to economize. We're going to do without such a lot of things that Jack needs."—Buffalo Courier.

"FRAMERS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.A." NO. 5

Benjamin Franklin—"Father of American Diplomacy"

AMERICA has never produced a greater statesman than Franklin, who was revered by the people second only to Washington. He was a signer of both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, and his wisdom made the latter a possibility. The great Lord Chatham pronounced him not only an honor to the Anglo-Saxon people, but to human nature. In every capitol of Europe he was a welcome guest, and he it was who induced France to lend us ships, men and money during the darkest days of the Revolution.
Upon his death Congress ordered a general mourning of a month. In France it was decreed that all members of the national assembly should wear mourning for three days. So long as Americans treasure the Republic and Personal Liberty as the noblest of all human blessings, the fame of Franklin can never perish. Personally he was possessed of robust health; he was a well-shaped man, of a wise but merry nature; he had the head of a Greek philosopher, while his grace, his noble bearing and winning personality made him a conspicuous figure in any assemblage of great men. He was a moderate user all his lifetime of Old Madeira and barley-malt brews. It is safe to say that he toasted the New Republic with every great man of Europe and America. Franklin considered his work in building the Constitution his greatest service to posterity. Upon the self-evident declaration of the Constitution of the United States Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago launched their gigantic institution. To-day, wherever Americans go for health, or business, or pleasure, their famed brand BUDWEISER is there. Its popularity, due to its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, has daily grown in public favor until 7500 people are constantly employed to keep pace with the ever-increasing demand.
